

Computer science graduate with strong fundamentals in Python programming, data structures, SQL databases, Git version control, and backend concepts. Completed multiple academic projects related to backend development.